Office of the Commandant

Dear Member of the Class of 2019:

Congratulations on your selection to attend the National War College. We are an integral part of the nation's flagship platform for strategic-level joint professional military education, the National Defense University. Since its founding in 1946, NWC's core mission has been to conduct a senior-level course in National Security Strategy. Throughout the academic year, we will put you in the shoes of national security decision-makers, and focus relentlessly on helping you hone your strategy-making skills and wield the various instruments of national power. It is a rigorous program with weekly reading requirements augmented with a number of writing assignments. Upon completion you will be prepared to serve at the most senior levels of our military and government and capable of dealing with the most challenging joint and interagency environments. The curriculum leads to a fully accredited Master of Science Degree in National Security Strategy. I encourage you to visit <http://nwc.ndu.edu/> to learn more about our program.

Our educational philosophy is centered on developing those critical thinking skills that lead to strategic analysis and synthesis. I want to underscore that we do not provide "school solutions." Our objective is to graduate students who are exceptionally able to:

1. Critically analyze strategic problems and issues;
2. Communicate clearly and concisely;
3. Assess issues creatively and imaginatively;
4. Adapt to ambiguity and uncertainty;
5. Operate with a joint, interagency, and multi-national perspective; and
6. Embrace an abiding structure of continuous learning about a dynamic and ever-changing global environment.

Our student body is unsurpassed in quality and represents potential leadership of our armed forces and government agencies. Historically, over one-third of our graduates have gone on to flag/general officer rank or the civilian equivalent in their careers. You and your classmates are a national asset among the finest officers and civil servants of our nation.

The demographics of our student body include about 55% military officers, 30% DoD and non-DoD civilian agencies, and 15% international fellows. Our non-DoD students represent the State Department, the intelligence community, law enforcement, homeland security and many other government agencies.

Among your classmates will be International Fellows, military officers from up to 32 countries, who will participate as full members of your class. Historically, our International Fellows are extremely successful in their promotion rates to flag/general officer. Many of our NWC Alumni are Chiefs of Defense, Chiefs of Services, and senior ranking officers on general/joint/multi-national staffs. You will find that interaction with your international colleagues will significantly enhance your educational experience. If you are interested in serving as a co-sponsor in tandem with our assigned faculty members, please let us know promptly. Co-sponsoring an International Fellow can be an enriching experience for you and your entire family.

Our faculty will add another unique dimension to your educational experience. They are an outstanding group of civilian and military scholars. We have civilian academics, officers from all military services, State Department and USAID Foreign Service officers, and senior officials from DHS, FBI, CIA, NSA, DOT, NSA and DIA. Combined, they give us a true joint and interagency perspective. In addition to strong academic credentials, the faculty bring a broad range of policy and command experience to the classroom. They have outstanding reputations for their excellence as teachers, practitioners and mentors.

Your attendance in the 10-month program is an opportunity not only to enrich your mind but to improve your physical conditioning and general health. To that end, we offer a wide variety of physical training and exercise opportunities. You will be afforded some optional medical assessments offered by the Health and Fitness Department of the National Defense University. I encourage each and every one of you to take full advantage of these services. More information will be provided during your orientation.

Your attendance can also be a great year for your family and spouse. Enclosed is a short spouse's note from our events coordinator regarding NWC spousal participation. Please ask your spouse to consider participating in the Spouses' Club. The size and scope of the program is determined by the level of interest. As you are all peers in class and come from diverse backgrounds, the Spouse Program is special. It can add a great deal to what should be a banner year for the entire family. Your spouse should be aware that a number of our academic elective courses are open to them, on a space available basis. And, there is a specific spouse elective called National Security Strategy Overview which is designed especially for all spouses. The course enjoys great reviews and I encourage your spouse to think about taking it as well as to participate in our diverse electives program.

Finally, please mark your calendars for the NWC Class of 2019 Commandant's Reception for you and your spouse on the evening of Friday, August 10th. This is the first of several formal social events held during the academic year. We look forward to welcoming each of you to the National War College and what will be a very special and enriching year.

Sincerely,

CHAD T. MANSKE
Brigadier General, U.S. Air Force

Office of the Dean of Students

Dear Member of the Class of 2019,

Welcome and congratulations on your selection to the National War College (NWC). I know you will find your year here challenging but rewarding. We look forward to your arrival.

The class is comprised of more than 200 students spanning the United States Government and Armed Forces as well as international representatives from over 30 countries. Our curriculum is a fast-paced, intense dive focused on the history and mechanisms of national security strategy to prepare you for major staff jobs and senior leadership positions.

It is important that you are fully registered and in-processed as smoothly as possible to allow you to move seamlessly into the fast-paced academic environment at NWC. To this end, please read your National Defense University (NDU) welcoming package and the information below closely. As NWC's class of 2019 includes students from over 25 different organizations, a standardized system that accounts for all requirements is difficult. Consequently, it is important for you to personally manage your transition. Many of the in-processing tasks will have to be personally coordinated by you with your parent service/agency. If you have any questions you can always reach me at Trenton.d.hesslink.mil@ndu.edu.

I would first like to direct you to NDU's public website located at <http://www.ndu.edu>. Please review the Information Technology and security requirements. The NDU campus is a Bring-Your-Own-Device personal computing environment with a government provided wireless network. As such, we have some very unique Information Assurance requirements. Please follow the links on the public webpage to complete Information Assurance compliance requirements PRIOR to your arrival on campus to ensure smooth in-processing and rapid connectivity. Please be advised that government furnished computing equipment is very limited.

In this packet and on the NWC's public website (accessed through NDU's website), you will find a welcome letter from the Commandant of the National War College and a letter from the Commandant's wife about the Spouses' Club. Your spouse can also learn more about the Spouses' Club by emailing nwcpouseconnection@gmail.com.

On NWC's website, you will find many items for your review as well as a short pre-arrival survey. Please complete this survey as soon as possible so that we can adequately prepare for your arrival.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at the above email address or phone 202-685-2319. You can also contact our Department of Operations at (202) 685-3674/3713/3715 or DSN 325-3674/3713/3715 or E-mail nwc-Operations@ndu.edu anytime.

Again congratulations on your assignment and we are very much looking forward to your arrival.

Sincerely,

Dear Student Spouse,

Welcome to the National War College! I know you will enjoy the coming year. It will be a wonderful mix of new friends, great places to explore, and for many of you, much needed family time with little travel involved. I want to help you with this transition in any way I can.

My absolute favorite part of this experience is the potential for new and lasting friendships. You'll have the chance to meet people from other branches of service and various government agencies. Invitations have also been sent to thirty-two countries requesting senior military members as students in this year's class. That means the potential exists for you to get to know the spouses of these students. The world becomes a very small place when we take the time to embrace and understand people of other cultures. We're all richer for these opportunities.

The policy at National War College is to include spouses as partners in the experience, so we include you in a number of interesting events throughout the year. Spouses are offered the opportunity to audit certain advanced studies classes and lectures on a space-available basis. The College provides generous support and encouragement for all spouse activities.

One way for you to get involved and quickly meet other spouses is by joining the NWC Spouses' Club. The board does not have an election of officers, but is made up of volunteers who meet monthly. With the size of the college student body, our membership is small, very informal and extremely friendly! The main objective of the club is for spouses to get to know one another and enjoy some of the wonderful activities our nation's capital has to offer. Please don't hesitate to jump in and serve in one of the areas we have to fill. This club is all about you and what you want to do as a team.

We'd love to have your contact information so we can include you in all the fun that will take place throughout the year. Attached is a survey for you to fill out. Please share your contact information so that we can keep in touch. There is also a place for you to let us know if you're interested in filling (or sharing) a board position. I'm really looking forward to meeting you in August. It will be here before we know it!

Most sincerely,

Stacey Manske
